Some 'Ifs' In Meat Outlook

Handlers Strike Over Much Will Depend Upon How Demands Develop

CHICAGO, May 22.—(AP)—The CIO Meat Handlers strike was over at most plants throughout the country today and industry sources forecast this good news for housewives:

1—Meat supplies probably will start spurting next week as some livestock believed held back on farms is shipped to market.

2—The additional supplies may result in lower retail prices.

There are some "ifs" in the price outlook—the principal one being how strong a demand for meat develops. Even if receipts at livestock markets boom Monday, it will be a week or 10 days before these additional meat supplies reach the nation's butcher shops in volume.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 22.—(AP)—Striking members of the United Packing House Workers union forfeited their 1948 vacations because they remained off the job more than 60 days, officials of Armour & Co. said today.

The vacations range from one to three weeks, depending upon the length of service. Company officials said, however, that under the contract employes who are off the job more than 60 days in one year are not eligible for the vacations. The strike here lasted 67 days.

The prices of meat on the hoof and on the butcher's shelves have been heading in opposite directions since the strike started March 16. Live cattle and hog prices have been tending downward because the strike reduced the capacity for slaughtering and butchering the animals. This decreased the demand, men in the industry say. In the retail markets, prices have edged generally ahead because demand was strong for the smaller than normal meat supplies.

Although the strike never caused any important meat shortages throughout the country, weekly meat production was only from 75 to 85 per cent of normal.

However, the longer term outlook for meat supplies is not so bright. Meat production normally slumps during the summer months. The meat packers say the backlog of farm supplies that was dammed up by the strike could keep them running at high capacity for two or three weeks.

The CIO United Packinghouse Workers union called off its strike yesterday aaginst Swift, Armour and Cudahy, but continued it against Wilson & Co. The strikers accepted the nine cents an hour wage boost they rejected before leaving their jobs.

The strike settlement spread today to the Kingan and Company plant at Indianapolis, where some 2,300 production workers accepted the nine cents boost.

Expect Some Workers Back

A union spokesman in New York said 50 Wilson workers would return to some of the company's branch houses there Monday despite the strike. These workers are covered by contracts different than those of the packinghouse workers.

However, the union continued its strike against the Rath Packing plant at Waterloo, Ia., and against the Morrell packing plant at Ottumwa, Ia. The national guard still is on duty at the Rath plant where a picket was slain Wednesday.

The strike also was kept in effect at the Morrell plant in Topeka, Kas. The Denver local of the CIO-UPW was almost a day late in accepting the strike's end against Armour, Cudahy and Swift. Earlier, the local had said that it still had some differences to settle with the three packers.

National Guardsmen were withdrawn from South St. Paul, Minn., scene of picket disorders.

S-C Failed To Accept Demand

LAKE SUCCESS, May 22—(AP)—The Security Council failed tonight to accept an American-Russian demand for strong United Nations action to stop the Palestine war.

Instead, it issued its second demand on Arabs and Jews to cease fire. It fixed a deadline at 36 hours after midnight, EST, tonight.

The final vote on a much-amended resolution was approved, 8 to 0. Syria, Russia and the Soviet Ukraine abstained.

The question of the U. N. using force really was decided, however, when the Security Council did not approve the United States demand. That preliminary vote was 5 to 0 with six nations abstaining.

Before the final vote, taken at 6:26 p. m., E.S.T., Warren R. Austin U. S. delegate, served notice the U. S. will call for further action if this 36-hour cease fire order is not observed.

The Council adjourned at 6:30 p. m., E.S.T., to meet Monday at 1:30 p. m., E.S.T., on Czechoslovakia and Palestine.

Look Forward To CC Concert

There is much interest in the repeat appearance of the Sedalia Choral Club, of which Abe Rosenthal is director, which will be held at 8:15 o'clock, Tuesday, June 1, at Smith-Cotton high school, from which all of the proceeds will go to the Freedom Train which will be in Sedalia on June 10.

Tickets may be obtained either from members of the Ministerial Alliance or the Sedalia Police department.

The program recently presented, with only a few changes, will be given again and many who heard the first program are anticipating another enjoyable evening while those who were not able to attend the first appearance expect to be at the program which the Choral Club is giving for the Freedom Train fund.

Mrs. Duane Ewing and Miss Jerry Teufel, duo piano team, will be an added feature on the program June 1.

Many Visitors Here To Attend Flower Show

Exhibits Showed Careful Planning, Original Ideas

The Flower Show sponsored by the Sedalia Garden Club held Saturday afternoon and evening at Convention Hall, Liberty Park, was attended by many people not only from Sedalia, but a number coming from Marshall, Boonville and many other places.

In addition to the specimens on exhibit and flower arrangements which were judged during the morning by J. E. Smith, professor of floriculture at the University of Missouri Columbia and two students, of floriculture at the university, Eugene M. Kent, Boonville and J. B. McCully, Jr., Columbia, there were many clever and attractive garden scenes and bride's tables.

The center of the large auditorium was a garden wedding scene.

Breakfast Looked Good

The most interesting breakfast table setting, arranged by circle number seven, had a realistic touch. Not only were the dishes and silver for the meal there, but also the food, real food. The toaster had two pieces of toast just waiting to be removed, there was a glass of tomatoe juice on each plate and a half grapefruit at each place with a cherry on top. The tables were all inviting with pretty dishes and flowers in a number of different ideas.

The booths of the different circles represented a variety of ideas. Circle number eight, the newest in the Garden Club featured a well with an old oaken bucket and copper cup. One garden enclosed with a white picket fence looked like the woman gardner might have left the scene for a few minutes, probably called to the telephone. There was the garden chair, a basket of flowers and a table with not only garden magazines but also her sunbonnet as she might have carelessly put it down. There were also shrubbery and flowers, shadow boxes and Mexican arrangements in the booths.

Awards

Awards in the tables were: First, Circle number seven; second, Circle number one; third, Circle number two and fourth Circle number five.

Awards in the booths were first, circle number five; second, Circle number seven and third, Circle number two.

Other spots of interest were the bird exhibit, with stuffed birds, birdhouses and bird feeders as well as pictures and a real live bird; the tea garden where refreshments were served and the miniature reproduction of the Blue Star Highway and the roadside parks which was the inspiration of Spencer Miller, Jr., when he made a cross country trip and saw all the blue star banners along the way.

Music was furnished during the afternoon by orchestras from Washington and Broadway schools.

Style Show

An event of the evening was the style show of summer fashions.

Junior Exhibit

The Junior exhibit in the north room of the building was a group of rose arbors, along the top of which were bird houses. Tables

Killed Over Nine Year Old Cat

TOPEKA, Kas., May 22.—(AP)—County Attorney Warren Chaw said an argument over a mangy, 9-year-old cat late today resulted in one of the most gruesome murders in this city's history.

Andrew Kelly, 57, was slain with a gun, a coal shovel and a brick, and parts of his head were strewn around the yard behind a one-story unpainted shack, Show said.

Albert Alten, 54, who lived in the house, was being held for investigation. Sheriff William Coates said Alten telephoned him from a grocery store to report the slaying.

Shaw quoted Alten as saying the killing climaxed an argument which started when Kelly threatened to take the cat from Alten's house, Shaw said Alten, in an oral statement, admitted shooting Kelly three times, then beating him with the shovel and brick until he was dead.

No charges have been filed against Alten.

New 'Jesse James' Died in Little Rock Christmas Day

LITTLE ROCK, May 22.—(AP)—The Arkansas Gazette reported tonight that "Jesse James" died at the state hospital here last Christmas Day.

The paper said the man, who claimed to have been born Sept. 5, 1847, came to Little Rock in May, 1943.

He told hospital attendants he was the "original Jesse James", and the hospital made a record of his account of his life.

The Gazette said that according to hospital records, "James" said "after taking the payroll off the limited train running from Chicago to Kansas City," he and his brother went to Deer Lodge, Montana.

Finally, "Governor Crittendon" was elected in Missouri and "brother Frank," agreed to surrender, was tried and acquitted. Later, according to the account, "I, Jesse, was found guiltless of all murder crimes."

The hospital record also quotes "James" as saying he returned to Missouri in 1932, "Stopped off at Excelsior Springs where I met ex-representatives, county judges, mayors, who identified me beyond doubt as the real Jesse James."

After 1932, the hospital patient said he was in the show business, relating his experiences as Jesse James. He settled in Little Rock in 1943 and until his death, made his living selling pictures of himself as "The real Jesse James."

CIO-UAW Hint of Violence if Corp. Uses Office Workers

DETROIT, May 22—(AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers today accused Chrysler Corp. of planning to use foremen and office workers as strikebreakers Monday and hinted the plan might lead to violence.

Norman Matthews, leader of the UAW's 11-day Chrysler strike made the charge when informed the two non-striking groups would be used next week to take inventory, a task normally assigned to UAW members.

"Responsibility for an disorder on the picket lines resulting from this policy will rest squarely on the shoulders of the company and we are so informing law enforcement agencies," Matthews declared in a telegram to Chrysler officials.

Robert W. Conder, the company's director of labor relations, had proposed the plan to speed the return to production when the dispute is settled.

A UAW spokesman meanwhile reported that German Motors employes are approving strike action by an 80 percent majority in union-conducted votes.

The report was made as GM and union negotiators held their first Saturday session since bargaining began March 12. The UAW has threatened to call a strike of 225,000 GM workers soon after next Friday unless their contract dispute is settled by them.

Four-Year-Old Drowns in Lake

ATCHISON, Kas., May 22—(AP)—Four-year-old James Milton Shortt drowned today at Sugar Lake, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Shortt, (29th and Stark) Kansas City, had rented a cabin for a weekend family reunion.

The resort is on the north shore of the lake, five miles east of here in Buchanan county, Missouri.

Dr. H. F. Mundy of St. Joseph, Mo., acting coroner, said the boy fell from a boat dock into five feet of water, and that the body was recovered after 20 or 25 minutes. A pulmotor crew from the Atchison fire department tried to resusitate the child.

Mrs. Shortt said the boy came into the cottage for a cookie a few minutes before she missed him. A search was started immediately, and the body was discovered by Harold Black, bartender at Cox's tavern nearby.

The child's father, a sheet metal worker, was in Atchison buying groceries for the reunion dinner when the drowning occurred.

Compelled His Little Sister to Pull Trigger

YOUNGWOOD, Pa., May 22—(AP)—A 12-year-old boy "who was sulking because his grandmother didn't buy him a billfold," compelled his 9-year-old sister to kill him with a rifle today, County Detective Edward Gordon reported.

Another sister watched the tragedy in a bedroom at the home of the children's grandparents, Gordon said.

The victim was Richard Russell Henry. He and his sisters, Joanne, 9 and Nancy, 10, had returned from a shopping trip only a short time before the shooting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Livingston.

Gordon said the boy went to his sister's room, loaded his grandfather's rifle, pointed it at his stomach and told Joanne:

"'Pull the trigger or I'll kill you.'"

Afraid Not To Obey

"Joanne said she was 'afraid not to do what he told me' and pulled the trigger. Richard slumped to the floor and cried:

"'Call grandmother right away.'"

Mrs. Livingston rushed upstairs and found Richard unconscious. She called an ambulance but Richard died enroute to the hospital.

"Joanne didn't seem to realize what happened until several hours later," Gordon said. "Now, the poor little girl just sobs and sobs.

U. S. Consul In Jerusalem Dies of Wounds

Hit By Sniper As He Returned From Trying to Make Peace

WASHINGTON, May 23—(Sunday)—(AP)—Consul General Thomas C. Wasson died in Jerusalem, the State department said this morning.

The Vice Consul William C. Burdett telegraphed the State department that Wasson died at 6 a. m., Jerusalem time (midnight eastern daylight time).

Wasson was shot yesterday returning from trying to arrange an Arab-Jewish truce in the Holy land.

The State department said Wasson presumably died in the Hadassah English Mission hospital where he was taken after the shooting.

By Edward E. Bomar

WASHINGTON, May 22—(AP)—Thomas C. Wasson, United States consul general at Jerusalem, and a member of his staff were wounded today in the first major incident of the battle for the Holy City to involve Americans.

The top U. S. representative in Palestine, Wasson, 52, was wounded "gravely" by a sniper as he braved gunfire in the streets in trying to arrange a cease fire agreement between Arabs and Jews, the state department reported.

FORT SMITH, Ark., May 22—(AP)—Herbert M. Walker, wounded by machine gun fire this morning near the United States consulate in Jerusalem, graduated from Fort Smith high school in 1939.

A Crawford county native he had lived here with his sister, Mrs. Kermit Keifer, (21 Vista Hillcrest,) while attending school.

A chief radioman in the navy during the last war, he had served in major battles in the African Asiatic, and European theatres.

This official account was given: A member of the three-man United Nations Security Council truce commission, Wasson was returning on foot from a meeting of the group at the French consulate.

Sniper Felled Him

Just outside the American consulate, a .30 caliber bullet from an unidentified sniper felled him.

After first aid treatment, he was taken in an armored ambulance to the Hadassah English Mission hospital. There doctors gave him better than an even chance to recover. The bullet passed through his right arm and chest.

Herbert M. Walker, member of a naval communications unit which maintains a radio link between Jerusalem and Washington, was hit by machine gun bullets near the consulate general. Dispatches indicated this was a separate incident.

Native Of Arkansas

Walker 27, is a navy chief engineer. A native of Mountainsburg, Ark., he lists his next of kin as a brother, L. C. Walker, of (205 Poydras St.) Dallas, Tex.

A third member of the consulate staff, which numbers about 60, Thomas Gannon, a guard, meanwhile was reported out of danger from a wound received May 18. He was shot in the back.

The shooting appeared likely to spur American effort to stop the Palestine fighting through the United Nations. There was no indication that the state department planned any other action.

12 Delegates Pledged To Support Dewey

Stassen Admits His Defeat in Oregon Primary

PORTLAND, Ore., May 23—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey stopped Harold Stassen in Oregon today.

It was a major setback for the Minnesota contender for the Republican presidential nomination.

It gave the New York governor 12 GOP delegates, pledged to support him at the convention.

Stassen conceded his defeat in Minneapolis as tabulations of yesterday's Oregon primary balloting continued to maintain Dewey's margin at around 6,000 votes.

82 per cent of the precincts reported as counting stopped for the night, Dewey's lead had increased to 6621 votes. The talley was Dewey 92,316 Stassen 85,695 in 1530 of the state's 1861 precincts.

Dewey's lead was compiled mostly in Portland, which gave him 5412 of his advantage. Upstate he led by 1209 votes.

A large part of the unreported count was from Multnomah county (Portland) which consistently was giving Dewey a substantial majority. It may be Monday, however, before the official count is complete.

Dewey In California

Dewey flew from Seattle to Sacramento today, and was congratulated on his Oregon triumph by Gov. Earl Warren of California. Warren's dark horse contender for the Republican nomination and California's favorite son to whom the state's big block of 63 delegates is pledged.

Dewey described the efforts of his supporters in Oregon as "heart warming."

Greeting Dewey, Warren told him "you seem to have done quite well in Oregon, governor, and I offer my congratulations."

"Yes," Dewey answered, "apparently I have done well enough and I am very happy about it."

Dewey's victory was in large part due to his surprising upstate support, which had been largely conceded to Stassen.

The New Yorker was leading Stassen by a slight margin in upstate areas as well as in the metropolitan Portland district.

Governor Hall Defeated

Going down to a surprise defeat in the Republican gubernatorial primary was Gov. John Hall, who had been regarded as odd-on choice for the nomination for a full term. As Speaker of the House, he succeeded to the governorship last October when Gov. Earl Snell, the Senate president and secretary of state all were killed in a plane crash.

Hall conceded the victory of State Senator Douglas McKay, 54-year-old Salem automobile dealer.

The Oregon election climaxed an all-out effort by the two candidates to capture the last state primary before the G. O. P. nominating convention at Philadelphia next month.

93-Year-Old Negro Missing From Home Since Friday

Issac Webb, 93-year-old Negro, is missing and has not been heard from since Friday morning when he told his granddaughter Bertha Webb, 317 East St. Louis street, that he was going fishing. He was seen on Highway 50 about 8:15 o'clock Friday night near the old Missouri Pacific lake east of La Monte.

He was seen by Clarence Bloss who was headed east on Highway 50 near the lake. At that time, it was reported he was in the middle of the pavement. He was accompanied by his little brown and white dog and was carrying a small package.

The dog was found beside the highway near the lake, Saturday, by persons who went to that vicinity to look for him. There was no traces which might have indicated he had walked over to the lake.

About 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon a man walked into the police station and reported that another man told him he saw a Negro lying on the bank of Muddy creek, near the highway bridge and that he was just lying there as if he was resting. When the Highway Patrol could not be contacted, and no report was received from the Sheriff's office, a Sedalia police car accompanied by a reporter went to the scene and made a search of the vicinity but likewise could find no trace of the man.

Later the Highway Patrol went to the vicinity and made an extensive search and could not locate anyone who had seen him nor were there any traces that a man had been on the bank, lying down.

His disappearance was reported to the police about 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Unable To Reach Comrades

Jewish Soldiers Charge Arab Positions Trying To Reach Those Hemmed in

By Daniel De Luce

AT ZION GATE IN JERUSALEM, May 22 — (AP) — Waves of Jewish soldiers charged Arab legion positions in the Zion gate early today but failed to reach their comrades hemmed into a corner of Jerusalem's old walled city.

The legionnaires from Trans-Jordan and 600 troops of Israel fought at close quarters with grenades and tommyguns on a battleground lit by flares and a bright spring moon.

Several times the Jews swept up to the walls on the south side of the old city only to be thrown back. Some of them attempted to climb over the wall from the top of an armored bus which was used like an ancient assault tower.

A legion commander said the Jewish attack was inspired by a wireless SOS in which the hard-pressed Jewish garrison inside the walls appealed for help. He described the action as the fiercest in the five-day battle for Jerusalem.

Resumed After Daylight

After daylight the legion's battle against the Jewish troops inside the walls was resumed. Dynamite squads again blasted weatherbeaten stone tenements packed around Beit Yaacov synagogue, otherwise known as the Hurva (ruin). That synagogue is the chief remaining Jewish fortress inside the walls.

Giant holes gaped in all four walls of Tiferet synagogue to the east where Jewish snipers had kept on firing even after the legionnaires entered.

Heavy Arab firing also was heard in the Jewish districts of modern Jerusalem.

With legionnaires before and behind them, the Jews inside the walls crept through underground passages and caverns to bring their maximum strength to bear against Arab attacks and to avoid bombardments. Many of the passages date from Roman times and are as much as 70 feet deep.

Might Tunnel Through Wall

The possibility was seen that the Jewish garrison eventually might tunnel through the Turkish wall of the old city and attempt to withdraw under cover of darkness up the eastern slope of Mount Zion to the safety of Jewish forward posts at Dormition church.

Such a tunnel also could be used to bring supplies and ammunition to the garrison which has reduced its fire sharply apparently because it is running short of bullets.

(In Cairo, a communique said a mobile Egyptian army force had entered Bethlehem within sight of Jerusalem after traveling nearly 40 miles from Beersheba. The Egyptians also have entered Maydal, an important miltary objective on the Mediterranean coast.

(The Egyptians may be attempting to join the legion's attempt to take Jerusalem.

Egyptian Planes Lost

(The communique also told of the loss of five Egyptian planes in a mistaken raid on a British airfield.

(The communique said the Egyptian Royal Air Force, confused by bad weather, attacked the British airfield at Ramit David, 14 miles southeast of Haifa, instead of the Jewish airport at Megiddo, south of Nazareth.

(Five planes were lost, it added, after saying that the Egyptian pilots had "caused damage and casualties" at Ramit David.

(In Tel Aviv the British said their fighter pilots shot down four Egyptian Spilfires, and that four members of a British ground crew had been killed and three seriously wounded. Two British planes were destroyed on the runway.)

Youth Smothered Under Sand

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., May 22—(AP)—Paul Staiger, 15, apparently smothered to death today in the collapse of a trench from which he and four companions were taking sand to smooth out a vacant lot they were converting to a baseball playing field.

Sixteen-year-old John Stone also was buried in the cave-in but was rescued by Ted Staiger, father of the dead youth, who was attracted to the scene by shouts of the other boys.

Signs Bill For Fair of $247,500

Aid To Airports And Funds For Merit System Also State Colleges

JEFFERSON CITY, May 21—(AP)—Phil M. Donnelly signed appropriation bills Friday allotting $198,555,746 to the state government.

Another $8,000,000 was transferred from the postwar reserve fund to finance the King "milk route' law for state aid to rural roads.

The total included $23,500,000 of state money for old age assistance, $5,000,000 for direct relief, $4,650,000 for aid to dependent children, and $1,500,000 to administer the big welfare program.

Last year the amount for old age assistance was $20,000,000.

Despite last minute controversy in the legislature, the bills signed today included $247,500 for the State Fair at Sedalia—$200,000 from fair earning and $47,500 from state general revenue.

The fair appropriation was in the civil list bill for various agencies. It included:

$250,000 for state aid to airports, $87,000 to finance the new state merit system (plus federal funds), $432,687 for the park board, which has figured in political controversy, $75,000 to conduct arbitration and elections under the Madison anti-strike law, $50,000 for the state board of mediation under the King-Thompson utility anti-strike law.

Funds To Colleges

Missouri university and the state colleges get a total of $16,516,539, including the following amounts:

University of Missouri at Columbia $4,840,040; Rolla School of Mines $1,570,355; Kirksville state college $55,787; Maryville state college $585,722; Warrensburg state college $559,045; Cape Girardeau state college $563,874; Springfield state college $664,266; Lincoln university for Negroes at Jefferson City $863,850.

In addition $5,366,750 was reappropriated to build dormitories at all the crowded state schools.

Today's action did not include a building prgram for the schools to be financed from the postwar reserve. Those funds are in an ominbus bill still pending before the governor.

Also pending are bills to finance correctional institutions, the state department of education, and to transfer $15,000,000 from general revenue to the postwar reserve fund. The governor indicated he planned to save the postwar reserve bill to the last and see how much money would be left for the reserve.

He made no changes in the bills signed today.

Mr. Rissler entered Indian service in September of 1941 at Lac du Flambeau, Wis., for Chippiwa Indians, as Science teacher. He was promoted to school principal in June, 1942, and was transferred to United Pueblo Agency, Albuquerque, N. M., in September of 1946 as principal of the Santa Domingo school. Efficient Hostess Sister of Sedalian

Mrs. Ray V. McGraw, 2402 South Ohio avenue, saw the article in Friday night's Democrat with the headline: "Rewarded for Her Efficiency" and almost didn't read it—then the first line of the article attracted her attention: "Good Morning, Trans World Airline!" and that meant something to her. She could just hear her sister saying that.

Sure enough the article was about Mrs. Elsie Marie Gregory, former Sedalian, and a sister of Mrs. McGraw.

Saw Jesse James Dead And 'Witnessed Burial'

NEOSHO, Mo., May 22—(AP)—John Thomas Anderson, 92, Nevada, Mo., man visiting here, came forward Friday with the story that he is a second cousin of Jesse James, saw his body before it was placed in a casket, attended his funeral and witnessed his burial back in April, 1882.

Blind and unable, therefore, to view a photograph of a 100-year-old Lawton, Okla., man who says he is Jesse James, Anderson declared nevertheless that "anyone who says he is Jesse James is an imposter."

Anderson, a lifelong resident of Missouri, said he was reared in Johnson county with the James family, that as a boy he knew both Jesse and Frank James, noted Missouri outlaws, and was in contact with them periodically until their deaths.

He said he was related to the James boys on their father's side. Anderson, a retired farmer, has ben residing with a daughter, Mrs. Jess Cashman, in Nevada, but came here recently to spend a month with a son, Ralph Anderson. He has been blind approximately 40 years.

"I know positively that Jesse James is dead and buried," he said this afternoon. "That story about him being alive is all wrong."

Sure Man Killed James

BUCKLIN, Mo., May 21—(AP)—Pete Engberg, 93, who says he delivered coal to Jesse James' house in St. Joseph, Mo., back in the winter of 1881, said today he is sure the outlaw was killed 66 years ago.

Engberg, a retired drayman, does not accept the story of the man in Lawton, Okla.. who claims to be the real Jesse James.

Uncle Pete, as he is known here, lived only three blocks from the home of Tom Howard, the name Jesse James used in St. Joseph.

"Howard sorta took a liking to me, I guess," Engberg recalled. "He asked the coal company where I worked to let no one but me deliver coal to the house. I think he liked the way I handled my horses."

Both he and his wife used to visit in the James home, and he saw the body of James soon after the slaying.

"When I saw the body, I knew it was the man I knew as Howard," Uncle Pete declared.

Be Careful on Memorial Day

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—Unless motorists take it easy, more than 300 people will be killed on the highways over the Memorial day week-end.

That's a warning from the American Automobile Association. It estimates 25,000,000 automobiles will be on the roads during the three and a half day period beginning Friday evening and ending Tuesday morning.

"Every indication points to the heaviest Memorial day traffic in history," the AAA said.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-'Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, May 22—Dead men tell no tales. That was why Greek terrorists tied the hands and feet of George Polk, CBS correspondent, shot him in the back and dumped him into Salonika harbor. Polk couldn't struggle much. His back had been broken when he crash landed at Guadalcanal and his spine was patched with metal plates.

George had been severely critical of the Greek Rightist regime and so, because dead men tell no tales, he was bumped off.

However, from the blue, dead dips of George Polk comes a tale which may shake the graft-ridden Greek government to its rotten core. Certainly it will tell the American taxpayers what they are entitled to know about the millions of dollars they have dumped into Greece.

For what the murderers of Geo. Polk did not know was that he had written letters before his death — letters which still live.

"We are fighting a tough battle over here," Polk wrote me before his death. "My feeling about Greece is that we should get in or get out, all the way. The situation is too grave for half measures.

"Of course, the state department hopes to stave off drastic decisions until after the U. S. presidential elections; but even our poorly informed American embassy doubts that this can be done.

"Yet when a reporter writes this kind of report, he comes under attack by the Royalist Rightwingers who are squeezing the country for their own benefit — and sending dollars out in diplomatic pouches as fast as possible. Specifically these crooks hope to get a number of American reporters now working in Greece discredited or moved.

American People Should

"Nevertheless,' continued Polk, "I think the American people deserve to know the kind of political machine that is rolling roughshod over the very nice Greek people."

Polk then proceeded to tell how "the propaganda line of both the Communists and the dominant rightwing Populist party has become identically the same.

"Both,' he said, "are charging the United States with "interference' in internal Greek affairs; both are charging that Washington desires to use the Greek people for the creation of an American empire.

"For example, the secret radio station of the Communist-led Greek guerillas has said: 'The United States is interfering in Greece to suck Greece's blood for nourishment of American imperialisms.'

"Simultaneously the Athens Royalist press has started plugging the same line, charging the United States with trying to establish a puppet government in the Greek capital so that Greeks will fight American's war against the Soviet Union.

"Greece's second largest newspaper, Royalist 'Vrathini,' has declared that 'if one observes the notices being issued to the Greek government by American Administrator Dwight P. Griswold, one must conclude that these were formulated in Tokio, addressed to the conquered Japanese or some other gangster-dominated country . . . Ironically these tactics are being used by a people who, through grave blunders, surrendered Europe to the worst of enemies and now are trying to win the war which was lost at Yalta and Potsdom . . . Further, the Americans—and our other Allies—the chiefly to blame for the mystery, devastation, and loss of life in Greece during the past year because of refusal to give the Greek army sufficient arms for use against the bandits in the Hills."

Polks' Prophecy

Prophetically, Polk then upt his finger on something which has started to come true.

"For the moment," he diagnosed, "the rightwing is playing things carefully because Populist leader Tsaldaris and henchmen don't want to upset Greece's opportunity to be included in the European recovery program. But once Greece is included, the rightwing is prepared to move fast—break up the coalition government, form a new one run in dictatorship fashion, send parliament home, replace '200 key administrative officers 'of the army, police, security officers prisons, and put into effect 'dynamic policies.'"

It was only a short time after the Marshall Plan was applied to Greece that 250 Greek political prisoners were shot by the government in retaliation for the assassination of Minister of Justice Ladas.

Continuing his description of Greek rightwing intrique against the United States, Polk wrote:

"Royalist 'Estia' asked editorially whether 'The United States expects the brave Greek army to fight a campaign with their bare hands?' Yet Major General William G. Livesay, military advisor to the American Aid Mission, has declared: 'The Greek national army as now equipped is superior in every respect to the Andartes (guerillas) and is capable of carrying out successful offensive operations against them . . .'

"Royalist Greek spokesmen are demanding a large number of 'pack mountain 75 caliber artillery' because the guerillas already have 'several' such weapons. Perhays the Royalist spokesmen do not know that the United States early last fall delivered fifty of these guns to Greece. Eight of the guns have been uncrated and put into use. The other forty two guns remain in a Piraeus Worehouse, a fate that is reserved for a large amount of any and all kinds of supplies today going to Greece.

No Appreciation In Greece

"There is no appreciation in Greece of American aid, which since end of World War II actually has amounted to $876,500,000 in all forms of grants, UNRRA funds, gifts of supplies, etc.

"As a commentary on this situation, the highly respected Athens newspaper 'Estia' complained editorially that the United States is limited to mission efforts to get food and blankets and medicines to the 500,000 Civil War refuges in northern Greece. Many of these supplies have been in government warehouses since fall despite efforts to obtain their release.

"'Estia' also had unpleasant things to say about a new Greek air force flying field that now is under construction near Kozani. 'Estia' expressed the scarcastic hope that the field was not being constructed by 'Americans who are Communist-minded like so many American mission members.'

"This is a sample—only one among many—of the rightwing anti-American offensive.

"Present Greek coalition government is dominated by the rightwing—with Royalist appointees holding practically all key jobs. Prime Minister Themostocles, Liberal party chief, has complained off the record that even he can't get anything done the way he wishes; he describes himself as a 'captive' official who is officially frustrated by the men who surround him as long term civil servants.

"So, the rightwing now is warming to the twin-pronged campaign — shell-shocking the American aid mission and discrediting a number of American correspondents. Behind this scheme is the rightwing's conviction that the United States is committed to continuing aid to Greece no matter what happens in Athens. Perhaps the rightwing is right.

"Certainly the Populists are tough guys—among the most calculating, unscrupulous, able politicians I've ever known. They are wagering an embarrassingly effective campaign against the United States.

Just how tough they were Geo. ge probably did not realize until he was seized in Salonika, bound hand-and-foot, shot in the back and thrown into the bay.

The mandrake plant mentioned in the Bible is the so-called European mandrake.

Mike Doyle, 84, was found dead at his home 715 South Lafayette avenue about 7:45 o'clock Saturday morning by Mrs. Bernadine Thornton, who had gone to his room to see how he was feeling. Police were notified and after making an investigation notified Dr. K. L. Holdren, coroner who viewed the body.

Mr. Doyle was attended by Dr. D. R. Edwards about midnight, Friday, who was called to the residence because of the illness of Mr. Doyle. Dr. Holdren stated an inquest was not necessary.

Mrs. Thornton talked with Mr. Doyle about 5:10 o'clock Saturday morning, and when she returned to his room about 7:45 o'clock, she found he had died.

Mr. Doyle was born July 3, 1863 near Otterville where he lived while young. He was a farmer of Pettis county and a member of the St. Patrick's church.

Death, it is believed, was due to a heart attack, suffered before he fell from a flat hay frame, which he was driving. Evidently the horses were making a turn in the lot and he was thrown off the wagon indicated by the position of the reins and a sack of fertilizer which had fallen from the wagon.

Mr. Offitt was born April 7, 1868, near Hardin, Mo., a son of Robert and Nannie Offitt. He was married on January 10, 1895, to Clara Barrett.

They had resided on their present farm for 35 years.

Surviving are his wife, one son, Lee Offitt, of Pleasanton, Kas., two grandchildren, Bobby and Billy Offitt, one brother, Henry Offitt, Holt, Mo., and one sister, Lelia Barkley, of Oklahoma.

Burial will be in the Sweet Springs cemetery.

Hudson Stays With the Times

The Sedalia Times-Record was sold at public auction, Saturday morning, and was purchased by Douglas Hudson, Ft. Scott, Kansas, brother of Stanton Hudson one of the owners of the company. He paid $9,600 subject to liens totalling $14,827.34. The Knob Noster Gem also sold under court order was purchased by Douglas Hudson for $752.50 at an auction sale held in Knob Noster, Saturday afternoon.

The sale was a result of a dissolution suit brought by Dan M. Carr, one of the partners in the company. The suit was sent to Johnson county under a change of venue, at which place Judge James R. Garrison ordered the court sale, and named William F. Brown, Sedalia attorney as trustee. He conducted the sale.

Douglas Hudson stated he purchased the paper in his name for purposes of convenience but that the real ownership will continue under his brother, Stanton. Mr. Hudson said the weekly papers and job printing plant would continue on as in the past.

Molasses Covered Iowa Youth Freed at Warsaw Saturday

"A hungry and exhausted senior of Iowa State college, Ames, Ia., clad only in trousers and with a blanket thrown over his shoulders, appeared early Saturday at the Benton county sheriff's office here, describing himself as the victim of a fraternity stunt," states the Saturday night Kansas City Star, in a dispatch from Warsaw, Mo. The article from Warsaw as taken from the Star, continues.

"James C. Greer, 21 years old, Detroit, soon to be graduated from the college, told Harrison Eaton, sheriff, that he had been taken on a 300-mile ride from Ames, and left in the woods about eighteen miles southeast of Warsaw with molasses and a granular cereal rubbed into his body and hair.

Victim of Annual Stunt

"The ride and punishment were part of an annual stunt in which fraternity pledges "kidnap" seniors and usually release them a few miles outside Ames, Greer said. This year they apparently decided to improve on past experience, he added. Greer is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

"'I returned to the fraternity house about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon," Greer said today. "We had just finished a mixed softball game against Delta Delta sorority, and I was planning to attend a senior 'good-by' banquet last night.

"'As I was entering the house about ten of the pledges seized me and tied me up. They threw a pillow case over my head as a blindfold. Then they loaded me into a Ford convertible, and four pledges went along for the ride.

The only stop on the 300-mile escape that Greer could recall was the car halted for several minutes in Des Moines.

Tied And Smeared

"At about 2 o'clock this morning, he related, they reached the woods, carried him from the car tied him, and stripped him to the waist. They then removed Greer's shoes, rubbed his body with the molasses and cereal, and drove away in the car.

"It took about half an hour for me to untie the rope," Greer said. "Then I walked about four miles along a gravel road until I reached a school. The pump was working, so I removed most of the molasses from my hair."

"Greer said he reached U. S. highway No. 65, about four miles from the school, at daybreak. He then obtained a ride to Warsaw.

Sheriff Provides Food

"At the sheriff's office the student notified a bank in Ames, and funds were to be sent so that he could return to college tonight. He was given breakfast by Sheriff Eaton and permitted to sleep in the press room of the Benton County Guide, a weekly newspaper.

"The fellows certainly surprised me," Greer said before he dozed off. "But I've seen rougher things done in the navy, I guess.'"

Federal Laws Govern Minors at Work

Department Calls Employers Attention to Rules

KANSAS CITY, May 22—Employers who plan to hire minors under 18 during the summer school vacation were reminded today of federal laws regulating child labor.

The statement was issued by Walter W. King, Kansas City, regional director of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor. King is responsible for administration and enforcement of child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act in eight states—Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota.

"Now is the time to make plans for the legal employment of school boys and girls," King said. "By acting in advance, employers can assure that boys and girls properly employed can stay in one job all summer."

Suggestions Offered

For the general guidance of employers and parents, he offered the following suggestions:

1. Advise young workers to get age certificates because age certificates are considered as proof of age and protect an employer against unwitting violations. Keep age certificates on file at the place of employment.

2. Determine the minimum ages for employment in given jobs and occupations. Full information regarding these minimum ages under federal law may be obtained by writing to the Regional Office of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions Office at 3000 Fidelity Building, Kansas City.

Summing up federal law relating to the employment of child workers, King emphasized that under the Fair Labor Standards Act the minimum age for employment in manufacturing, mining or processing occupations and public messenger service is 16.

The minimum age of 18 applies to most occupations connected with explosive plants, motor-vehicle drivers, coal mining, logging and sawmilling, operation of wood-cutting machines, use of radioactive substances, and power driven hoisting machines.

"For children under 16, sweeping, cleaning up, handling material or performing any work in rooms where manufacturing or processing takes place is as illegal as actual work on the machines even though these youngsters are employed in such manufacturing work rooms after all activity for the day has ceased," King said.

On Government Contracts

"Employers working on government supply contracts subject to the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act may not legally employ boys under 16 nor girls under 18 years old in the production or handling of goods."

The Walsh-Healey Act applies to government contracts in excess of $10,000. The child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act apply to employers producing goods for shipment in interstate commerce.

King pointed out that where employment is regulated by both state and federal laws, the statute setting the higher standard will prevail.

He stressed the importance of proper work opportunities—legal and unoppressive employment—for youngsters. He urged, however, the active cooperation of employers and parents in an effort to guarantee that children be kept out of jobs which are oppressive or which tend to exploit them in order to lower labor costs.

Expert Sees Women's Fear of Losing Sex Appeal

By Francis Lewine

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 22.—(AP)—The biggest block in women's fight for equal rights has been fear of "losing sex appeal," says an expert in the field.

For more than 3,000 years, reports Dr. Ida Bobula, visiting lecturer at New Jersey College (NJC) for Women of Rutgers University, men have been quick to use this potent weapon against feminists, suffragists and career women.

"Most women naturally would rather win a man's heart than fight for the right to sit beside him at a legislative session," she added.

Dr. Bobula, former professor of history at the University of Debrecen, Budapest, Hungary, was a leader in her own country's fight for woman suffrage and equal rights.

Now she is presenting the first course in "The History of Women" ever given at NJC.

"The greatest revolution in the history of mankind—raising half of humanity to political equality—is essentially accomplished," she said. But the problem today, she adds, is whether women actually will participate equally with men in government.

May Mean Setback

"If we don't assume our responsibility, it may mean the greatest setback in human evolution," Dr. Bobula said.

American women are celebrating the centennial year of their fight for equal rights, "yet not even in this fortunate country are conditions favorable for combining both a career and marriage," she said.

Dr. Bobula recalled that one hundred years ago, in July, 1948, the first women's rights convention in history was held at Seneca Falls, N. Y. Actually, she says, the fight for these rights really began as far back as recorded history can recall.

Dr. Bobula, in her college course, traces the status of women through the ages and the periodic ebb and flow of power between the sexes.

"Humanity has been happiest in those periods when there has been a balance of power between men and women, she says.

Force For Peace

"Always," she adds, "women have been a force for peace and the mutual understanding of nations, for sound Democratic progress and social evolution. The world badly needs some female influence."

The next practical task for women today is "to make it possible to combine a career with marriage and children," Dr. Bobula says.

This may be done, she suggests, by measures like reducing the number of working hours per day to four or six instead of eight, by providing well staffed day nurseries for young children and by the development of commercial kitchens to provide home-cooked meals at the housewife's order.

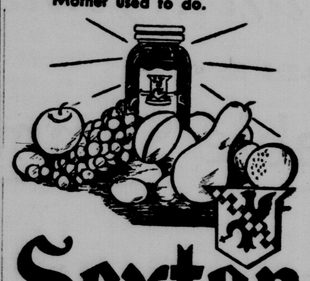

"Housework ought to be divided between men and women as a sort of partnership," Dr. Bobula says. "It is a grand thing for harmony if both know the difficulty of the struggle for a living as well as the tediousness of housework."

Research indicates that high-frequency sound waves—ultrasonics—will soon process foods, drugs and chemicals, remove dirt from clothing, and protect mine and industrial workers.

Program For Development In Alaska

Truman Request For Statehood Soon As Possible

WASHINGTON, May 22—(AP)—President Truman Friday sent to Congress a five-point program for the development of Alaska with a request that it be admitted to statehood "at the earliest possible date."

Asserting that Alaska has had territorial government for more than 35 years, Mr. Truman said that it has had "a sufficient period of preparation for its admission as a state."

The program, in addition to asking for congressional action on statehood, calls for:

1. Improving the transportation system.
2. Construction of housing and community facilities.
3. Lands for natives.
4. Encouragement of land settlement.

The President asserted it is in the interest of the United States to assist in dveloping Alaska's known resources of food, timber and minerals and "to help open economic opportunities on a sound long-term basis."

He said his recommendations would contribute to that program for a territory of 94,000 people and with a population still growing. He urged Congress to enact legislation providing for statehood, noting that the House committee on public lands "has unanimously recommended such legislation."

Council Approves Aid To Hospitals

JEFFERSON CITY, May 22—(AP)—Six areas were approved by the state hospital advisory council Friday for $2,617,999 worth of federal aid for new hospital construction.

The money was allocated to St. John's hospital at Springfield for a minimum of 200 new beds and to county hospitals at Hayti, Perryville, Rolal, Troy and Kennett for a minimum of 50 beds each.

The federal funds, available under the Hill-Burton act, represent one-third the cost of construction, local sources supply the remaining two-thirds. Thus the total cost of hospitals approved today for construction would amount to $7,853,997 with the local share.

The money is designed primarily to aid rural areas with funds allocated first to the neediest areas. Last month the hospital survey group designated 15 areas as most needing new hospital facilities. They are places where none to only 23 per cent of estimated hospital needs are being met now.

Ray McCarthy of St. Louis is chairman of the advisory council.

Says Topeka Base Be Reactivated

TOPEKA, Kas., May 22—(AP)—The Topeka air force base will be reactivated by Sept. 1 with a complement of 5,00 persons, Rep. Albert Cole (R-Kas) said here Friday.

The first district congressman, on a weekend visit in his home district, said he had learned from authoritative sources that three units would move here.

He said these would be a reconnaissance wing, a reconnaissance group and the 7th Geodetic survey squadron.

Cole said the number of planes in the units was not immediately available.

The Topeka base, now on a standby basis, is presently under the air transport command with approximately 200 persons stationed at the field.

It was turned over to the ATC when the army air forces moved out in 1945.

Where Dignity Abides—

The most luxurious hotel I have ever been inside of is the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

The lobby is huge;its atmosphere permeated with the essence of dignity. Steeped in elegance and etiquette, even the bell-hops command respectful deference.

Like all hotels the Waldorf-Astoria has its quota of eating and drinking emporiums, dignified by such names as the Sert Room, The Oasis, Peacock Alley, and no ordinary alley let me tell you.

As might be expected, inebriates pass through the lobby, but do not tarry long. However, one succeeded in depositing himself on a lounge and promptly slid his frame into full-length relaxation and sleep.

This horrible slur to the dignity of the Waldorf lobby quickly was observed by a bell-boy. Spectators wondered how the young man would handle the situation. He approached the lounge, leaned over and gently shook the drunk into wakefulness, then politely informed him:

"Sir, you are distinctly out of order!"

The drunk from the hinterlands was so amazed at this dignified suggestion about his condition that he immediately arose and without a word of protest marched unsteadily across the lobby and out the Park avenue entrance into the vast unknown.

The antithesis of this experience with Waldorf dignity came the next day in an exquisite dining room of the same hotel.

A rather important person made his appearance and at once was given attention by the head waiter. Evidently the man was one of the hotel executive personnel, and in a hurry. He chose an abbreviated dinner which included baked food in a small casserole. He ate a few bites, jumped up and was out the door in a flash.

The head waiter looked with evident disappointment on the abandoned food while a waiter began removing it. However the head waiter picked up the casserole and sought seclusion behind a counter near the cashier's desk. Furtively he looked around the dining room and when he thought no one was looking he dipped into the caserole with a spoon and stabbed it to his mouth. Then he would wait for another chance, and another until he had stabbed himself full of the food his superior had abandoned. All this in full view of anyone in the huge ritzy dining room, but done so delicately and quickly that I don't believe anyone but myself was aware of his surreptitious consumption of food left-overs.

I felt like telling him:

"Sir, you are distinctly out of order!"

The Grass Grows Greener—

After ten years neglect I am beginning to take interest in my lawn.

When the family moved into the house a decade ago there was pretty green sod in front. Six children and their playmates during the next few years quickly made a dust bowl of the grass plot. A corps of youthful bicyclists had a practice of hopping the street curb and driving over the yard to the porch bannister to talk to the girls. A season of croquet added to the devastation.

Then, I suppose, I could have thwarted the youngsters by playing the role of a cranky old father. But I let it go. And I'm glad I did because three of the boys who used to trample the grass lost their lives in the service of their country, one shot by the Japs on a lonely Pacific island, one shot down in the air over Germany and another killed in a plane accident in the states.

Now when I'm tending the lawn and nursing new grass to grow in the old worn spots, sometimes I seem to hear the laughter of those boys giving me encouragement and a little apologetic banter.

Greener grass than ever before is growing in my front yard almost without any special attention; it's coming up through hard-packed earth almost as though it had some silent assistance during the warm nights and sunny days.

New grass grows. And when the time comes for the grandchildren and their playmates to scamper about on it, the boys who are gone will probably admonish me to let the tots have their fun, let them wear the grass away because new grass like new generations will come again; and innocent playtime without too much parental restraint creates treasured memories in the here and perhaps in the hereafter.

New Motor Cars Still Far Short of Demand

By David J. Wilkie

DETROIT, May 22.—(AP)—The two millionth motor vehicle to be built in the United States this year is scheduled to be assembled about the end of this month.

Probably only a complete stoppage of assembly plant activities can prevent that achievement. But encouraging as that may appear to the would-be new car buyer who has waited many months for his automobile, the figures are somewhat misleading.

First, the total will include more than 600,000 trucks and other commercial vehicles. Secondly, nearly 100,000 of the remaining 1,400,000 passenger vehicles will have been shipped to foreign markets.

So, to meet a demand now estimated at more than 5,000,000 passenger units, the industry will have delivered to its domestic dealers only about 1,300,000.

Must Step Up Prodution

The nation's automotive factories may turn out 5,000,000 cars and trucks this year, but to do it production will have to be stepped up substantially during the latter six months. And, again, probably 1,300,000 units of the output will be commercial vehicles.

If assembly line operations remain on schedule June 1 will find the car industry only about 50,000 vehicles—both cars and trucks—ahead of last year at that date.

June could be a banner month in car and truck output because Ford expects to be back in full production after many weeks of retooling for new models. But what lies ahead of the industry for the last half of the year is anybody's guess.

Steel to Europe

The car makers expect the European relief program to take a lot of steel, including much of the kind that is used in their foundries and stamping mills to make automobile engines, frames and bodies. So they are not counting upon any more tonnage than they need for the July-through-December schedules.

These schedules allow for shutdowns of varying length by many of the car makers for the change-over to their 1949 models. In some instances where radical design changes are planned these shutdowns run four weeks or more.

Industry analysts look for major changes in most General Motors and Chrysler models before the year's end. Ford, just completing the most drastic change over since 1927, probably will make no more alterations until late next year. It has been estimated the current switch-over has cost Ford around $100,000,000 in addition to close to 80,000 units of production.

New Models Costly

Most of the other car makers invested heavily in bringing out their current models and may do little more than "face lift" them for next year. There have been few, if any, instances in the car industry's history in which any manufacturer has made major changes in two successive years.

Even "face lifting" is a major competitive factor in the car industry's operations. It greatly alters the appearance and eye appeal of an automobile. Achieved largely through the redesigning of fenders and radiator grilles it serves to stimulate buyer interest.

Transformer Invention Claimed for Russian

MOSCOW—(AP)—"Izvestia" recently announced that the electric transformer had been invented by a Russian. The paper stated that Member - Correspondent M. A. Shatelen of the Acodemy of Sciences of the USSR had just completed an extensive work on the history of the electric transformer. The work of Shatelen has proved, stated "Izvestia", that the discovery of the transformer for alternating current was the work of the great Russian scientist of the beginning of the nineteenth century, P. N. Yablochkin.

The transformers were demonstrated in the seventies and eighties of the last century at the Petersburg Exhibit of the Russian Technical Society, says "Izvestia."

Rear Engine Tractor On Display Here

A new type farm tractor is now on display at Wahrenbrock Implement Co., local Allis-Chalmers dealer. Melvin F. Wahrenbrock predicts it may replace that last team of horses on many farms by serving as a shore tractor, and that it will complete power needs on many other farms.

The new Allis-Chalmers model differs from previous tractor design in that it has a rear-mounted engine with implements attached in front within unobstructed view of the operator. Moving the engine to the rear keeps the front of the tractor clear for mounted implements, any of which can be attached or detatched in five minutes. Even the plow is front-mounted.

Mr. Wahrenbrock points out that many farms keep one team of horses for a few seasonal jobs, such as corn planting or hauling. Although such tasks are few and far between, the horses "eat their heads off" all year long, and at present feed prices, "that ain't hay." The new tractor, he says, will do such work on 2 to 3 quarts of fuel an hour—and eats only when it works. The owner just presses the starter button, with on currying, harnessing or hitching up.

It was said that this is the first riding tractor to answer the needs of part time farmers, of which there are now more than one million in this country. The company's slogan for the tractor is: "For some jobs on all farms and all jobs on some farms." The new tractor is pictured in Wahrenbrocks Implement company's advertisement in this issue.

I know that many of you still have a fur coat hanging in your closet that really should be in storage. You've probably hesitated to store it, feeling that it was too old to spend any money on. But, it should be in storage . . . leaving it hang in a stuffy closet through the summer months will certainly do nothing for it as fas as looks are concerned. When your coat goes to storage, all the natural oils are brought out and it becomes soft and pliable. A cleaning and glazing job will put a lustre on it. When taken to a reputable store, repairs can be made that are not expensive and you will be able to wear your coat for another season. Aside from all of those things you are actually inviting moths to live with you by leaving your furs hang. Get out your furs today and take them to storage . . get an estimate on repair and cleaning . . . or, just store them. Anyway, get the furs out of your house for the summer.

Hal Boyle's Column

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(AP)—Where does war end and murder begin?

That question is posed today by a stalwart six-foot-two-inch former adjutant of Heinrich Himmler—Col. Joachim Peiper, who might in time have taken Adolf Hitler's place.

And it is a hard question to answer — regardless of whether Peiper, who one of his sergeants said wanted to become "the fuehrer of the Fourth Reich," ultimately is hanged, goes to prison or is freed.

This handsome Nazi soldier — still only 33 years old—is one of 43 German SS troops condemned to death on charges of murdering 750 American soldiers and 150 Belgian civilians during the Battle of the Bulge.

Among the victims were more than 70 unarmed members of a U. S. artillery observation battalion, shot down in the infamous "Malmedy Massacre."

International Court

The death sentences for Peiper and his pals were passed by an international court sitting at Dachau, where the trial judge for hundreds of thousands of German concentration camp prisoners had been the gas chamber.

There was no appeal from the gas chamber. The sentences against the Nazi storm troopers were appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court which refused to review it on a 4-to-4 decision that it had no jurisdiction.

This only points up again the legal difficulties in assessing war guilt.

Meanwhile Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall has ordered a stay of execution against 17 of the condemned men pending investigation of charges the Nazis had been beaten and forced to confess at "mock" trials in prison by American prosecutors.

An Added Interest

The case has an added interest because Peiper was a bold and outstanding soldier for whom some American commanders profess a reluctant off-the-record admiration.

One American officer who had been his prisoner, Lt. Col. Hal D. McCown of Rushton, La., even flew the Atlantic to testify in Col. Peiper's defense.

He said the young Nazi officer, when his progress was halted, freed 150 American prisoners and "at no time did I see mistreatment of American prisoners of war."

Loyal To Nazis

I remember interviewing Lt. Col. McCown near Malmedy a few hours after he got back from capture himself. Peiper, after burning his stranded tanks and guns, had taken off on foot at the head of his column of men and safely led them at night through the American lines.

McCown then—this was in December 1944—spoke of the long philosophic talks he had had with Peiper, who was unbreakable in his Nazi loyalty and contemptuous of American troops.

"Why don't you attack more at night?" He told McCown. "Night is the friend of the strong."

It is hard to remove the "Malmedy Massacre" from the scene and the time—and the feeling at that time. I have heard some American officers say it has been overemphasized because an armored column on the march sometimes has to execute prisoners because it has no way to pass them back but can't let them go to signal their own troops ahead.

Shadow Upon Them

Our own armored columns on occasion followed this course. Never, however, so far as I know, on the scale the Germans did outside Malmedy. And leaving out the question of the 750 American troops killed, there are still the 150 Belgian civilians. For their deaths it is hard to advance the semblance of a military excuse.

Where does war end and murder begin? Young Col. Peiper, arrogant, brave and self-confident—the man who might have become another Hitler—is the symbol of one unfinished answer.

The shadow of night is upon him.

'Gee, This Picketing's Hard Work'

Stanley Baysdell, Jr., is the official mascot of UAW Dodge Local No. 3, in Detroit. When the 75,000 Chrysler Corporation employes struck, the 4-year-old did a trick on the picket lines. But he found that picketing is kind of tough on the feet.

Calling Drs. Stevenson

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Persons patronizing a new clinic here may ask for "Dr. Stevenson, please," or Dr. Stevenson . . . or . . . Dr. Stevenson. If they want a surgeon, Dr. Edward N. Stevenson or his twin brother, Dr. E. Malcolm Stevenson, would answer. Then there's Dr. Cleo W. Stevenson, their brother, who specializes in internal medicine.

The twin Doctors Stevenson have been confusing patients several years. Now Dr. Cleo has joined their clinic and it's a real family affair.

A soil covering of asphale roofing offers an effective means of protecting the house withoua a basement from dampness, suggests the Department of Agriculture. Its studies showed that houses built on wet sites became dry within three months after the roofing was rolled out on the sail.

A five-pound dressed stewing chicken will yield about three pounds of chicken meat, including giblets. This will make three to four cups of cubed meat for a creamed dish or a salad.

Briton Leads Arab Legion

Brig. John Baggot Glubb

Brig. John BBaggot Glubb, the British commander of Trans-Jordan's Arab Legion, will continue to lead King Abdullah's troops against the Palestine Jews, London sources say. The 40 British commissioned officers who helped Glubb Pasha train and direct the Legion will also remain. Small, studious, stooped, scar chinned Brig. Glubb went to the Middle East in 1920, after serving in World War I. He has been there ever since. Called "the second Lawrence of Arabia," he is feared and respected by Arabs, even more than Lawrence was. He helped form Iraq out of the once Turkish Mesopotamia, pacifying firce desert tribes that had known no masters except their sheiks. In 1939 he organized the Desert Patrol, part of the Arab Legion, then commanded by Col. Frederick Peake. When Col. Peake resigned in 1939, Glubb Pasha took over. He whipped the Legion into a desert blitzkrieg unit of 5,000 men the most potent striking force in the Arab world. It did yeoman service for Britain against the Axis forces. Now, nearly double its original strength, it is spearheading the Arab attack on the new Jewish state of Israel.

Dealer to Preview 1949 Ford Cars

Henry E. Engle, manager of the Engle Motor Co., Ford dealers, will go to Oklahoma City to attend the showing of the full line of 1949 Ford cars in Oklahoma City's Municipal auditorium Monday.

The one-day showing will be attended by more than 1700 dealers and Ford company sales personnel from ten midwestern and southwestern states. Ira B. Groves, of Kansas City, will preside at the program.

Three Enlist in Navy

William Melton Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heast M. Green, 668 East Sixteenth street, Eugene Bruce Smith, son of Mrs. Myrtle Mae Smith, Syracuse, and Harold Wray Klein, son of Mrs. Altha F. Klein, Syracuse, were enlisted Friday in the U. S. Navy.

They were enlisted for three years in the regular navy and are now on their way by rail to San Diego, Cal., where they will enter the U. S. Naval Training Center for twelve weeks training and instruction in seamanship before being assigned to duty aboard ship and going to sea.

These young men were enlisted through the local Navy Recruiting Station.

To Men of the High School CLASS OF '48

THERE'S a big day coming soon—the day when you get your diploma. At your graduation exercises you'll hear two things mentioned often—the opportunities and the obligations of manhood. Those aren't just words. They deserve the serious thinking of every high school graduate.

As an American citizen your opportunities are greater than in any other country on earth. And for that very reason you have an obligation to defend America and its freedoms—to make this way of life secure.

By enlisting in the Army or Air Force after graduation you will be discharging your debt to your country. At the same time you can take advantage of one of the finest opportunities ever offered a young man.

CHOOSE YOUR FIELD OF SPECIAL TRAINING BEFORE YOU ENLIST!

If you are 18 to 34 (17 with parents' consent) and a high school graduate, you can select your course of training in the Army or the Air Force before enlisting.

Under the Army Technical School Plan you can specify two different courses that appeal to you in each of two fields. The Army will check to make sure there is an opening in one of the four courses you have selected, and a place will be reserved for you in that course. Then you enlist for 3, 4 or 5 years, and after passing the physical and mental examinations and completing basic training you will be guaranteed training in your chosen field.

The Air Force offers a similar opportunity in its Aviation Career Plan, giving you a pre-enlistment choice of 3 among the more than 40 USAF Specialist Schools. There is no better way to get a start in the great and growing field of aviation.

Either plan gives you good pay, excellent training and a splendid chance for advancement in a real career. You can get full information, including lists of available Specialist Schools and Technical Courses, at your nearest Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

Dickson is Hit Hard But Wins 6 to 4

Cardinals Have A 4-Run Seventh To K. O. Sain

BOSTON, May 22— (AP) —Although slammed for three home runs Murry Dickson today pitched and helped bat the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-4 victory over the Boston Braves before 11,443 fans.

The Cards got off to a two run lead in the first inning on one hit, Nippy Jones' single, which followed three walks issued by Boston starter and loser Johnny Sain, and an error by Bill Salkeld.

Tommy Holmes clouted his 4th homer of the season in the third inning to bring the Braves, who had scored once in the second, in to a 2-2 tie.

That deadlock lasted until the seventh when Dickson doubled to left field and scored on Red Schoendienst's right field single.

Erv Dusak hit to the same spot and after Stan Musial popped out Enos Slaughter got a ground rule double when his hit bounced off the lower section of the center field fence and disappeared between the upper and lower billboards. One run was allowed to score.

Don Lang, playing third in place of Whitey Kurowski who has a sore arm, singled off reliefer Bob Hogue to drive in two more runs.

Jeff Heath powdered his fifth homer of the year in the ninth and Salkeld hit his first in the same inning for the Braves' final tallies.

Athletics To Cameron Today

The Sedalia Athletics will be making their bid for the victory column again this afternoon when they meet the Merchants of Cameron, Missouri at 2:30 in the latter's brand new baseball park.

Duke Sullivan's boys went thru a strong practice session Friday evening in order to mend themselves back together after dropping their first game of the season last week to Max Lanier's All-Stars. Now the local semi-pro nine is back with full strength and ready for their second road game of the year.

Members of the Athletic squad will leave in a group from the Pacific Cafe at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Stymie's Bankroll Up to $844,760

NEW YORK Mayq 22— (AP) — Stymie, the world's leading money-winning horse, came from dead last with his characteristic stretch drive today to win the 55th running of the Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont Park and boost his total bankroll to $844,760.

It was the first victory of the year for the great seven-year-old chestnut horse owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, and the crowd of 41,693 let him get away at 5 to 1 for a $12.20—for $2 payoff at the mutuels. He paid $9 for place, and $5.60 to show.

Stymie gained a half length decision over W. F. Hooper's Colosal. The winner was going away at the finish.

William Helis' Rippey, winner of the Toboggan Handicap here Monday, led this time into the bend for home, then began fading and wound up third, a length and a half away from Colosal. Fourth another length and a half back was W. L. Brann's Gallorette, which had been established the 2 to 1 favorite.

$50,000 Handicap Won by On Trust

INGLEWOOD, Cal. May 22—(AP) —Favored On Trust set down 10 rival California-breds in handy fashion to win the $50,000 Golden West State Breeders handicap today before 42,856 fans at Hollywood Park.

On Trust, clocked in one minute 42 seconds, paid the short price of $3, $2.60 and $2.40. Triskelion paid $9.20 and $5.90 and Please me $6.20.

Jr. Legion to Play Warsaw This Afternoon

Visitors Won Twice From Sedalians in Last Season's Play

The Warsaw Junior Legion team will provide the opposition for the Sedalia Junior Legion team this afternoon on the Liberty Park diamond. Game time will be 2:30 o'clock. The Sedalians will be after their fifth straight victory in this afternoon's game.

Last season Warsaw was the only Junior Legion team in this district to beat the Sedalia team in regular season play. Warsaw lost one more game than Sedalia so the local team was the district representative to the state tournamen. Following last year's state tournament, the Warsaw club chalked up another win over the Sedalians, so this afternoon's game may be a tough one for the Post 16 boys to win.

Manager John Thomas is confident his team is ready for Warsaw and has announced the following lineup: Ruffin cf, Holst lf, Fall ss, Vilmer 2b, Cooney 1b, Walker 3b, McCrary rf, Neidholdt c, and Mehl p.

The Warsaw lineup probably will be: Williams cf, Wiest c, Lumpe 2b, Miller rf, Hickman 3b, Crenshaw 1b, Smith ss, Bohmer or Newkirk lf, and Intelman p.

Chiefs to Play an Exhibition Game

The Sedalia Chiefs will play an exhibition game at Marshall this afternoon. A regular league game was originally scheduled for this afternoon, but so many of the players are busy with school activities that the exhibition game was arranged. The team will leave at 12:30 o'clock for Marshall.

Monday night, the regular league game will be played at Marshall, game time 8:00 o'clock.

Harbert Leads Long Hitters In PGA Play

Ousts Alexander With 12-Under Par Performance

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

ST. LOUIS, May 22—(AP)—A trio of slammers paced by one of the longest hitters of them all, Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich. led the way into the quarter finals of the 30th Professional Golfers Association championship today as most of the tournament hot shots came successfully through the 3rd round.

Harbert turned in an amazing performance as he ousted the medalist, Skip Alexander of Lexington, N. C., by an 11 and 10 margin. He shot a ten-under par 61 for his morning round and finished the 26 holes twelce under perfect figures.

Snead Not Far Behind

Not far behind him Sammy Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., clouter and Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., both of them noted for their long hitting, turned in decisive victories.

Snead whipped Leland Gibson of Kansas City, 5 and 3, and Bulla routed Ky Laffoon of St. Andrews, Ill., 6 and 5.

Other survivors of the 36-hole third round matches over the par 71, 6,467 yard Norwood Hills Country Club course were Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., and George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa. They're all well-known figures in tournament golf altho several do not make the entire circuit.

Hogan Beats Sarazen

Hogan had to stand off the day's greatest comeback to conquer 46-year-old Gene Sarazen, 1-up.

Sarazen was five down after 24 holes and just missed a birdie that would have squared the match on the final hole.

Fazio won by the same margin over Ed (Porky) Oliver of Kenmore, Wash. Demaret turned back national open champion Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., 3 and 2. Turnesa beat Al Smith of Winston-Salem, N. C., also 3 and 2, and Harmon, winner of the Augusta masters tournament this year, beat Henry Ransom of Ravinia, Ill., 2 and 1.

Tomorrow's matches will send Harbert against Hogan, Demaret against Fazio, Snead against Harmon and Bulla against Turnesa.

Right after the match, Sarazen told his opponent: "Ben, this is my last P.G.A. championship. The 36-hole grind is too much for me."

Sport Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

JUVENILE delinquency in Sedalia is at its lowest ebb, and that is not just talk. It is a matter of record, public record. Juvenile court hearings are very few compared with a few years back, and Cecil Glenn, juvenile officer, has not had the troubles he experienced several years ago.

Recently a meeting was held to discuss a Y.M.C.A. for Sedalia. At this meeting (I wasn't invited) the discussion came about that it would help to curb juvenile delinquency. Not that it would help our youngsters in Sedalia, but I am sure it was a mighty poor sales point to encourage bringing back to Sedalia at Y.M.C.A. The Y.M.C.A. is an institution, but it does not necessarily curb juvenile delinquency.

Personally I feel that the group of men who have been working to bring back Boy Scouting in Sedalia—the Optimist Club who have organized such a fine group of boys in their Junior G-Men Club, the schools in particular Also The American Legion in their boys work of Junior Legion baseball, The Ban Johnson League being formed, and most sure the Northeast Athletic Club, have done wonders in encouraging our Sedalia youth to activities. Activities which are clean, body builders and educational. Activities which are showing the youth what life really is and how they can become good citizens.

The Teen-Town activities likewise have done wonders in helping some of the youngsters who might find entertainment other than what they get there. This civic project deserves much credit along with the others.

A Y.M.C.A. is a good thing, but I can remember and have some memories of dark days from them which resulted in it being disbanded here. As I recall it, Sedalia just couldn't or wouldn't carry such a financial load as it produced.

My good friend Jimmy Glenn is all worked up with enthusiasm over the Sedalia Athletics and the recent All-Star Game. He wrote me of the recent game and how the Athletics expressed thanks for attendants of fans. I agree with Jimmy that more of this type of baseball could be had at Liberty Park along with the regular playing season of all the clubs.

The Max Lanier All-Stars provided some excellant entertainment in baseball playing and the Athletics held their own against such professional ball players. It was good clean baseball and everybody enjoyed themselves from the pitching of the first ball until the final out was made.

From the talk among local fans they would like a return game with the All-Stars. Players on the visiting team had nothing but praise for Sedalia and the treatment they received from the fans, and indicated if their bookings brought them any place near here, they too, would like a return.

The Athletics have other games of high calibre teams booked here during the summer months.

JUST a week ago, I boarded the Texas Special at St. Louis for the maiden trip of the combined Missouri-Kansas-Texas and Frisco, new and beautiful, streamliner to San Antonio, Texas. Mrs. Scruton and myself were guests of these two railroads and I must say that it was the most enjoyable three and a half day vacation we have had in several years. Yes, the M-K-T made it possible for a "lay-over" in San Antonio, the visit was nice, and we met an old friend in James Battersby, now a Public Relations Counsel there, and Mrs. Battersby.

The trip was made possible through V. V. "Scotty" Masterson, of the Public Relations Department of the M-K-T who induced M. R. Cring, assistant to the president, to invite both Mrs. Scruton and myself to be among some ten or fifteen other newspaper men, officials and their wives.

I had the pleasure of making the "shake-down" trip of the Katy's new train before it was placed into service. That too, was enjoyed, because I learned a lot about railroading, but it wasn't like the last tour. We were assigned to a bed room on car 12. From then on we couldn't turn around without some Frisco-Katy employee asking us if there was anything they could do to make our trip comfortable. What impressed the missus was the fact it wasn't only the guests they treated thusly but the "cash customers," as well.

No description of the train is necessary, because that was told in a story some weeks ago after the "shake-down". But I might say being on regular schedule and operation it was something different. The train movement was hardly noticeable. The engineers having gone through their instructions on operation of the new diesel engines, operated them as if they had been doing it for years. Their "take-off" and their stops were such we hardly knew when either was made.

The Oklahoma hospitality was also evident. It appeared as if the Scrutons were to be "Lone Rangers" in San Antonio for the "stay-over", but Bennett Story, publisher of the Durant, Okla. Democrat, and Mrs. Story decided to remain over to show us the sights. We certainly saw 'em in that short 24-hours. Then too, we met some nice Texas folks, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coon, Mr. Coon the publisher of the Denison Herald. Mr. Coon and myself made the first trip together. Then, there was Mrs. Frank Baldwin, wife of Frank Baldwin, publisher of the Waco News-Tribune, Mrs. Mary Bolton also of Waco, and numerous reporters.

We all missed Jack Maguire, of the Publicity Department of the Katy, but he had to stay home because he became the proud father of a seven pound son.

Yet, the M-K-T treated us newspaper folks like we were somebody and we all certainly enjoyed every second of it. Thanks again "Scotty" for being such a delightful host and you, Mr. Cring for inviting us, and seeing that Scotty took care of everybody.

Gene Bearden Blanks Red Sox 7 to 0

Third Straight Win for Indians' Rookie Lefthander

NEW YORK, May 22 — (AP) — Gene Bearden, 27-year-old rookie lefthander, pitched the front running Cleveland Indians to a game and a half lead in the American League pennant race when he shut out out the Boston Red Sox 7-0 today.

Bearden, acquired from the New York Yankees in 1946, held the Red Sox to six hits before a ladies day crowd of 28,997 at Cleveland. It was the husky southpaw's third straight win. He has allowed only two runs in 27 innings.

The second place Philadelphia Athletics dropped a full game to the Indians when the Detroit Tigers came from behind with a three-run outburst in the ninth to win 6-5. After Vic Wertz tied the score against Phil Marchildon with a bases-loaded single, pinch-hitter Dick Wakefield singled to drive in the winning run.

Yankees Two Games Behind

Helped by the home run bats of Joe Dimaggio, Billy Johnson and George McQuinn, Red Embree pitched the New York Yankees to a 10-2 triumph over the Chicago White Sox. The victory left the third place Yankees only two games behind Cleveland.

With Eddie Pellagrini slamming a home run and Jerry Priddy driving in the other three runs, the St. Louis Browns defeated the Washington Senators for the third straight time, 4-2, to climb into a fourth place tie with Detroit. Each is playing .500 ball.

Scoring four runs in the seventh inning, the National League leading Cardinals broke a 2-2 tie and went on to defeat the Boston Braves, 6-2. Murry Dickson registered his third win although he was tagged for three home runs, two of them coming in the last half of the ninth. Johnny Sain was the loser.

Giants' Bats Come to Life

The New York Giants' sleeping bats finally woke up as they banged out 12 hits including homers by Sid Gordon and Whitey Lockman to bury the Chicago Cubs under an 11-0 score. Ray Poat allowed only six hits to register his fourth victory, the second by a shutout. Gordon, who replaced Jack Lohrke at third base, hit his round tripper with the bases loaded.

With Kirby Higbe holding his old mates to four hits and striking out eight, the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 3-1 to hand the Brook's their seventh straight home defeat. Ralph Branca, Dodger ace, gave up five hits but was charged with his fifth loss. He has won two. It was Higbe's first complete game of the season. Stan Rojek and Dixie Walker, a pair of former Dodgers, batted in the winning runs for Pittsburgh.

Simmons Loses 4th Game

Harry Gumbert win his fifth game in relief as the Cincinnati Reds banged out 15 hits to defeat the Philadelphia Phils 9-2. Curt Simmons, Philadelphia's 19-year-old $60,000 bonus player, was charged with the defeat. It was his fourth loss against one victory.

Babe Young, Benny Zientara and Claude Corbitt each rapped out three hits for the victors. Johnny Blatnik, rookie Phils' outfielder, continued his sensational hitting with three doubles.

Midget Auto Racing In K. C. Memorial Day

Midget Auto Racing will start in Kansas City at the Olympic stadium Sunday night, May 30, Decoration Day, an announcement was made by the Midget Auto Racing Association, the past week. Time trials for the races start at 6 o'clock in the evening with the racing events beginning at 7 o'clock.

Contracts have been signed with various nationally known midget car drivers coming from Texas, Oklahoma, Illinois and Missouri. They have been working over their small cars during the winter months and are ready for the grand opening in Kansas City.

Sponsors of the races have revamped the stadium to include 3,000 additional seats which are located on the north curve of the track, so the fans can witness in easy comfort the spectacular events.

Kentucky has its Kentucky Derby but to Kansas City fans and the immediate areas nothing is comparable to events that are to be featured at Olympic Stadium this year.

Dutch Miller promises that Kansas City fans are to witness the best in car equipment. Competition will be so keen this year that the point standings will bear watching. $150,000 in car equipment is expected to appear for races opening night. Cars in varied colors will be splattering mud as they skid the fifth mile oval.

U. S. Women Golfers Retain Curtiss Cup

BIRKDALE, England, May 22—(AP)—America's links queens retained the big silver Curtis Cup today by defeating the best women golfers that England, Scotland and Ireland could offer.

The visitors triumphed in four of the six singles that made up today's program and halved a fifth despite rain and wind.. That lifted their score to 6½ to 2½, equalling the widest margin of victory in the competition that started in 1932.

The U.S. women never have been defeated in Curtis Cup play.

In addition to the Curtis Cup, the U.S. now holds the Walker Cup, involving male amateurs; the Ryder Cup, for male professionals; the British men's amateur crown and the British women's title. The British open title stayed on this side of the Atlantic last year by a single stroke.

Blues Journey To Jefferson City Today

The Sedalia Blues will journey to Jefferson City today where they will play the J.C. Tweedies in a night game of the Central Missouri League. The team will depart at 7 o'clock this morning. The team plays the State Penitentiary at 10 o'clock this morning.

The program for teams playing in Jefferson City usually cals for a morning game with the prison aggregation, with the town team games being played either in the afternoon or in a night contest.

Manager Vincent Siegel desires all players to be prepared to leave at the announced hour so as not to cause any delay in getting to Jefferson City for the morning tilt.

The Blues will be after their second victory in the league.

M. U. Hurdlers Set New Big Seven Records

Missouri Takes Conference Meet With 143 Points

By Randall W. Blake

LINCOLN, Neb. May 22—(AP)—Madill (Bud) Gartiser and Richard Ault rewrote the Big Seven hurdles record sheet today. Leading Missouri to a smashing triumph in the annual Conference track and field meet. Gartiser had a :14.2 in the 120 yard highs as he won easily. His time replaced the :14.5 record set 18 years ago by Bob Hager of Iowa State.

Ault nosed out Gartiser in the 220 low hurdles with a time of :23.3, a tenth of a second better than the previous record established by Heye Lambertus of Nebraska in 1932.

A third record was set by Rollin Prather, defending shot put champion who tossed the ball 53 feet, 2 7-8 inches. His throw wiped out the old record of 52 feet, 7⅛ inches by Bill Bangert of Missouri in 1945.

In winning its second consecutive outdoor title, Missouri compiled 143 points. Missouri now has a two-year sweep of both the indoor and outdoor titles, and becomes the fourth team to win two outdoor titles in a row.

Nebraska Places Second

Nebraska, paced by a fine field of 100 and 220 yard sprinters, took second with 93¾ points.

Kansas scored 67¾, Kansas State 59, Colorado 48¾, Oklahoma 40¾ and Iowa State 12.

The meet had a trio of double winners in Harry Meginnis of Nebraska, Bob Karnes of Kansas and Prather.

Meginnis took the 100 in 10 seconds even and the 220 in 21.7. Karnes was first in the mile at 4:22.3 and in the two mile at 9:42. Prather, in addition to his shot put record, was tops in the discus at 157 feet, ½ inch.:

How Missouri and Nebraska dominated the track events was demonstrated in the one-two finish of the Tigers in the hurdle races and the 440 and the one-two-three finish of Nebraska in the 220 and the one-two finish in the 100.

High Jump Has Oddity

The high jump, in which Tom Scofield of Kansas successfully defgended his champion, carried its oddity as all teams scored. This was due to a two-way tie for third and a four-way tie for fith.

Prather won the Henry Schulte Memorial trophy annually presented the Omaha World Herald to the competitor chosen by the coaches as the meet's outstanding athlete. Scofield won it last year when he set a Conference high jump record.

Dick Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Shea, 912 West Fifth street, won the 880-yard run. The results of this event were:

880-yard run: 1—Dick Shea, Kansas; 2—Charles Lancaster, Missouri; 3—Duane Wolfe, Missouri; 4—Andy Gary, Oklahoma; 5—Bill Stuart, Kansas State; 8—Art Hildebrand, Kansas State. Time 1 minute 55.5 seconds.

Air Force Groups Bill Is Signed

Truman Gives Notice He May Not Expend Full $3,198,100,000

WASHINGTON, May 22 — (AP) —President Truman signed the 70-group Air Force bill into law Friday but served notice that he may not approve spending of the full $3,198,100,000 voted by Congress for aviation.

Mr. Truman's statement reopened a controversy which began when his administration recommended keeping the present 55-group airmada but strengthening it. Congress, by an overwhelming vote in each house, upped the nation's future air strength to 70 groups.

"The Congress has seen fit," the President said, "to provide $822,000,000 beyond the amount which I considered necessary in submitting my request for the acceleration of the (air) program.

"Provision has been made, however, that the funds shall not be spent without a finding by the President that the 'contracts let are necesasry in the national defense' and that the procurement results in the 'maximum utilization of improvements in aircraft and equipment consistent with the defense needs of the U. S.'

"To assist me in discharging this responsibility, I have asked the Secretary of Defense and the Director of the Bureau of Budget to formulate and recommend appropriate procedures."

More Combat Planes

In the present 55-group force, there are 5,500 active combat planes, 7,500 in storage.

The 70 groups will mean 6,869 active combat planes, with 8,100 in storage.

That doesn't mean just increasing the 5,500 planes in the 55 groups to 6,869 in 70 groups. Year by year the old planes will have to be replaced.

This will mean building thousands of planes, costing billions of dollars. The funds being provided now are just a starter.

The bill makes $3,198,100,000 available for the air force and the navy's bureau of aeronautics to place orders for new planes. The money will be charged against next year's budget.

It will, in effect, give air force and navy planners a running start of a little over a month on the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Ross Enlists in Palestine Fight

Barney Ross, right, signs up for his next fight. The former lightweight and welterweight boxing champion enlists in the George Washington Legion for Palestine, with the Legion's London-born commander, Maj. Samuel Weiser, looking on. Ross was a Marine Corps hero during World War II.

The Importance of "Stepping Down"

Here is the story of a new principle of design that has rocked the industry and given Hudson unique beauty not possible in any other type of car.

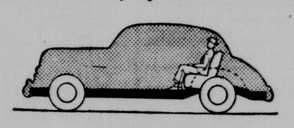

THE recessed floor in the new Hudson—now widely known as the "step-down" feature—is the talk of the automobile world. And rightly so! This interesting development is the key to a new kind of motor-car beauty never before obtainable.

People everywhere are attracted by Hudson's low, streamlined silhouette and free-flowing lines.

Only Hudson, because of its exclusive recessed floor that you step down onto, is able to offer streamlined, low-built beauty without asking you to give up interior head room.

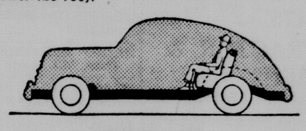

Let's take a frank look at the motor-car designer's problem. Since streamlining an automobile reduces available head room for rear-seat passengers, to achieve a low silhouette and maintain adequate head room, both floor and seats must be lowered to compensate for the lowered roof. The recessed floor is a necessity.

But it is difficult to lower floors and seats, because in all cars, except Hudson, they are built on top of a frame. Only Hudson has a new, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame*, part of which is a rugged base structure that permits lowering floors and seats down within the frame. The sketches below illustrate this design problem and show how Hudson's recessed floor provides a low, streamlined silhouette, yet preserves head room.

OTHER CARS

The car above cannot be streamlined because the need for head room above the rear seat (which is built on top of a frame) makes it impossible to lower the roof.

OTHER CARS

Of course, it is possible to adopt free-flowing lines without recessing the floor, as sketched in the car above, but over-all height must be raised, and this destroys the possibility of a low silhouette, which is the mark of the modern motor car.

NEW HUDSON

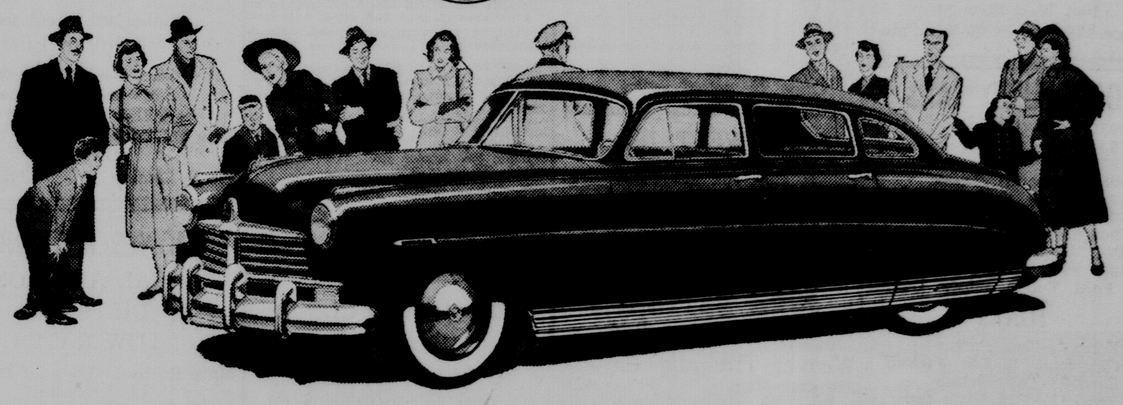

Here is the long, low, gracefully streamlined Hudson—only five feet from ground to top. You can see how the streamlined roof comes down sharply over the rear-seat portion of the car, as compared to the other types of roof lines shown in sketches to the left. But Hudson floors are recessed down within the frame, seats are lowered, so you get more than ample head room.

The "step-down" principle requires years of engineering work, the development of new production techniques and equipment, and millions of dollars of highly specialized new plant investment. Perhaps this explains why Hudson alone offers this vital new design principle today.

You'll probably expect the motor car that is the talk of the nation to offer you even more than beauty and comfort. And it does! Your nearby Hudson dealer will show you The Importance of "Stepping Down"—also its results in riding and driving ease, performance and safety. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit 14.

While awaiting a chance to leave their detention camps on Cyprus and reach Palestine, these Jews make a clothesline out of the barbed wire that encircles their camp at Xylotymbou. They're some of the 25,000 immigrants to Palestine whom the British intercepted and sent to the island of Cyprus.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP)—One hotel here has a "solarium" where guests can relax under varying degrees of "sunlight" produced by artificial ultraviolet radiation.

Wait for Chance to Reach Palestine

Held on the island of Cyprus by the British, Jewish refugees manage to keep clean under primitive conditions while waiting for a chance to reach Palestine. These Jews are shown at the quarantine camp at Caraolos.

Leveling-Off Perhaps, But No Price Collapse

By David G. Bareuther

NEW YORK, May 22—(AP)—Prospects for lower construction costs for the thousands of families waiting to build new homes appear dim today.

Expert observers believe the whirlwind of spiraling building costs is slowing down—that a leveling-off period may be approaching—but they forsee no collapse in prices.

A year ago fears of recession, combined with resentment over high building costs, were blamed for starting a "buyers' strike." People who withdrew from the market in the spring, hoping for lower costs in the fall, found as much as $500 had been added to the cost of a $10,000 house by the time the "strike' was over.

Throughout the winter, costs continued upward. A national survey recently completed by the Dow Service, Inc., New York publishers of building reports, shows on average construction cost increase since last fall of five per cent in 33 states.

Two Per Cent Rise

"The other 15 states," says Myron L. Matthews, vice president of the Dow Service, "principally in the heavy industrialized northeast and north central areas, average a two per cent rise."

Only in a few local areas, Matthews adds, have costs shown any drop.

Labor costs have now been frozen in many sections of the country. In the New York area, for example, contracts have been signed to June 30, 1950 with loopholes for increases if the cost of living goes higher than 15 per cent above its January 1948 level.

Guy B. Panero, head of the New York engineering firm bearing his name, says "Labor wage rates are so great a factor in the construction of buildings that it is almost impossible to forsee a decline in costs.'

Wages Seldom Go Down

"Our past industrial history," Panero adds, "especially as it applies to the building trades and crafts, show that hourly wage rates once increased are seldom decreased."

A new shortage of labor in the home building industry is becoming a matter of concern. The imminence of a re-armament program coupled with industrial demands of the European recovery program (ERP), is regarded as a challenge by home builders.

The Long Island architectural firm of Rudolph A. Matern and associates, for example, had been advising clients to hold off from building until recently.

"We have now switched our opinion," Matern says, "and have been advising people to build now if they must have a home within the next two or three years.

Reason For Change

"Our reason for switching embrace the income tax reduction plan. This will add approximately five billion dollars to the circulation of money. Somewhere between six and seven billion have been appropriated for the ERP. Congress is considering spending anywhere from 35 to 40 billions in a re-armament or defense program in the next three years.

"These factors alone could have a considerable effect on raising the cost of all products including houses.

"In addition, any temporary draft or universal military training will tend to decrease available manpower. Labor absorbed in the international effect may bring about a greater shortage of labor in the home building industry.

"Finally, there has been talk of reinstating allotment of materials.

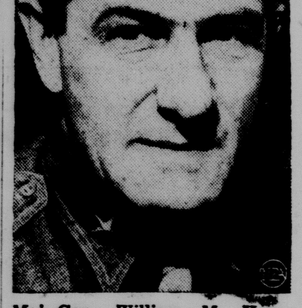

Following a Pattern

"All of this follows the pattern we expected before World War II, when prices continued to climb, were difficult or impossible to get, and in certain areas house construction was prohibited, while in other areas house sizes were limited."

Meanwhile, the accumulated building demand is cited as "staggering in immensity" by J. P. H. Perry, vice president of the Turner Construction Co., specialists in large scale operations. Writing in Civil Engineering, publication of the American Society of Civil Engineers, he predicts that "the ERP will have a great effect on our national economy."

Perry believes "this country has had its biggest building booms in the face of the highest costs." He cites the building cost index from 1920 to 1929 as having averaged about 200 on a base of 100 for the pre-World War I year of 1913, "or about twice the prewar index."

Maj.-Gen. William M. Hoge, above, has been named to take command of American troops in the Trieste area. Hoge, now commander of the Engineer School at Fort Belvoir, Va., will succeed Maj.-Gen Bryant E. Moore in June.

Rank of Class to be Announced to Group Prior to Rehearsal Thursday Afternoon Paul A. Grigsby Commencement Speaker; Baccalaureate Sermon This Afternoon

Today is the beginning of a busy week for seniors, 190 of them, at Smith-Cotton high school, members of the class to be graduated at commencement exercises at the school Thursday night. They are days looked forward to for four years, from the time they enter their freshman year. But when they come, which they do all too quickly, there are regrets because many happy friendships will drift apart, and it means separation of groups grown close together. It means commencement of the adult life.

The Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church will deliver the baccalaureate address to the class, their relatives and friends, at the school auditorium, at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon.

Paul A. Grigsby, of Granite City, Ill., will be the speaker at the Commencement exercises to be held Thursday night in the school auditorium. Mr. Grigsby is a former principal of Smith-Cotton.

The program for this afternoon follows:

Gas Masks in the Jungle

SYDNEY, Australia—(AP)—Bush workers in Northern Queensland have found one of the hazards of clearing tropical scrub is the pollen from a species of stinging nettle tree which causes hay fever and continuous sneezing. One worker got the idea of using gas masks and his mates have followed his example. The masks are hot, but that is preferable to the ravages of the pollen.

South Abell Club Meeting

The South Abell Club met at the home of Mrs. G. M. Kelley May 12, with Mrs. A. K. Smith, assistant hostess.

A covered dish luncheon was served at the noon hour. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Orlo Richardson. Mrs. A. K. Smith read Psalm 112, followed by all singing the club song. Roll call was answered by giving a recipe for the family favorite dish. The club voted to give $5.00 to the Cancer fund. Mrs. G. M. Kelley told how to care for shrubbery. In observance of Mothers day, Mrs. J. E. Fairfax read several poems of tribute to Mother.

Mrs. A. H. Lueninghoener sang a song, "Tell Me the Story of Jesus," also read a poem on music. The next meeting will be June 9 at the home of Mrs. Orlo Richardson, with Mrs. Wilber O'Leary as assistant hostess. A three dish dinner will be demonstrated.

To Undergo Operation

Mrs. Josephine Yates Cahill, 1616 South Missouri avenue, is leaving Sunday for St. Louis, where she will undergo an eye operation at the Millan hospital Monday.

Fungus Aids Golf, Sculpture

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — A strange Australian fungus, commonly known as "blackfellow's bread," offers possibilities for sculptors—and golfers. This fungus, which is often turned over in lumps of 20 pounds or so, resembles potato when it is dug up and can be easily cut with a pocket knife, but when it has been dried in the sun it bakes into rocklike hardness. Whether the Australian aborigines actually ever ate it is doubtful.

Children in the Australian outback cut lumps of blackfellows' bread into the shape of a ball and use it for playing cricket. It has been claimed that golf balls made from the fungus are as good as the rubber ones. Small statues and ornaments carved from the fungus can be given a high polish after they have been dried in the sun.

First U. S. Mint

The first United States mint was a glass furnace, where glass beads were made as currency for trade with the Indians. The furnace, located near Jamestown, Va., was uncovered in 1933, when Jesse Dimmick, Negro farmer, turned up bits of colored glass with his plow.

Non-streamlined sedans waste about one-half of their power, at 30 miles an hour in overcoming wind resistance.

"Linda's First Love" is the intriguing title of a new dramatic serial to be heard over KMBC each Monday through Friday, beginning tomorrow, at 1:30 p. m. The 15-minute show features radio actress Arline Blackburn in the title role, that of a young clerk whose day-to-day experiences make up the warm, human-interest filled episodes.

—KMBC—

Looking at you from the left—William E. Griffith, Jr., known to a lot of people, including radio listeners, as Bill Griffith, the guy who rolls out early in the morning to bring you news at 6:00, 7:15, 8:25 and 9:45 a.m., Monday through Saturday — (also at noon and 12:55 p.m. on Saturdays). Bill's a native Kansas Citian, and one of the best known newsmen on radio and newspapers in the area. A graduate of the University of Kansas, Bill spent several years in active newspaper work, becoming city editor and editorial writer before he capitulated to the kilocycles. He's been with KMBC since 1945 and admits he's a dedicated man—dedicated to newscasting, gardening, golf, bridge, and, mostly, raising a family.

Bill Griffith

—KMBC—

How much do you know about Indians? If only as much as the average American, then it's time you met Walter Pinyon. Walter Pinyon is an ex-GI, a Navajo Indian, about 25, married. He's got a story to tell you over KMBC Saturday at 4 p. m. It's a special, hour-long drama, "Arrows in the Dust," presented by the CBS Documentary Unit. Walter's story isn't a pretty one, but it's important. For a real look at American Indians and their problems—and our responsibility in the matter—tune in this compelling drama next Saturday at 4 o'clock.

—KMBC—

That face over on the right is the personal property of one Jed Starkey, a fixture around these KMBC parts for lo, these seven years! Jed's heard on the Corn Crib Carnival, 5:00 to 5:30 a.m., Monday through Saturday; on the Daily Almanac at 6:10 a. m., same days; on the daily Dinner Bell Roundup Hour; and on Brush Creek Follies every Saturday evening. The little feller from Chinquapin Holler, Arkansas, has been knocking around show business ever since his school days, and has been in radio since 1927. Besides acting, he's found time to do free-lance comedy writing, and one of his serials, "Punkin' Valley" was on the air for four years. His hobby is painting, using both oil and tempera as media—but his most amazing facility is in the number and types of musical instruments he plays—saxophone, fiddle, sweet potato (ocarina, to you!) Jed can also make music with rubber tubes, rubber balloons and metal nail-pullers! Claims he's the only man in the country that plays the nail-puller, and we aren't arguing that one!

ROGER moved his chair a little nearer to Patience's. Dwight drew one up next to Charlotte.

"Have a drink," said Roger, summoning the waiter. And when he'd given the order: "When did you decide to come to Paris?"

"Just a day or two back."

"You were clever to track us down here," smiled Charlotte.

"I guessed you'd probably be here or at the Cafe de la Paix around drinking time."

She smiled at him.

"Any plans for this evening, Dwight?"

"None. Have you?"

"Not yet."

"Can I join up with you three?"

"Sure. That'll be grand," said Charlotte.

Patience felt a hand stray to hers beneath the table. Roger murmured in her ear.

"We'll have fun, you and I. We might possibly lose the others."

"What's that?" asked Charlotte.

Roger grinned.

"You'll know later."

Dwight looked around for the waiter.

"Let's have some more drinks."

Patience shook her head.

"I don't think I will, thank you."

"I don't think I will either," said Charlotte. "I'd like to be getting along to the hotel."

They sauntered back together. They talked over what they should do that evening.

"We could get seats for some show," suggested Dwight.

"But it's Sunday," protested Patience.

"That makes no difference in Paris," said Roger. "Didn't you know, darling, that it's a wicked city?"

"I believe the Folies Bergere is worth seeing," said Dwight.

"That's O. K. by me," said Charlotte.

Roger hesitated.

"You take Charlotte there, Dwight, and I'll find somewhere else for Patience."

"Why?" asked Patience.

"I don't think you'd like it."

"Oh, gosh," said Charlotte. "I forgot my little sister's careful upbringing."

"Why wouldn't I like it?" asked Patience.

Roger tucked her arm through his.

"It's not suitable for nice little girls like you."

• • •

DWIGHT said: "That arrangement suits me all right. Actually I've got to see that show. That's one of the reasons I'm over here. There's a girl in it I'm interested in."

"Another one?" asked Charlotte.

"Sure. I'm interested in lots of girls. Didn't you know? They're my job."

"You're awfully commercial, aren't you?"

His expression changed as he looked at her.

"Not always."

Patience saw Charlotte's color rise. She thought: "What is going on between those two?" And felt certain there was something. Something, too, that Roger didn't very much like.

He said now, a trifle irritably: "Well, what are we going to do this evening? We'd better make up our minds about it."

"Let's dine together anyway," said Charlotte. "And if we go on to different shows we'll meet up later for supper."

It wasn't a successful dinner party. Patience knew she'd be thankful when it was over. True, the food was excellent, also the wine, and for her at least it was exciting just to be sitting in a smart Parisian restaurant. But the other three seemed singularly ill-tempered. There'd be spasms of conversation and then strained silences. Till at last Dwight called for the bill.

"Where shall we meet after?" he asked.

"Somewhere in Montmartre, I suggest," said Charlotte. "Some place where we can dance."

"Let's make no plans," said Roger. "We'll probably bump into each other."

Charlotte looked at him.

"Is that what you'd really prefer?"

"Yes."

Dwight grinned at her.

"We don't want to thrust ourselves on them, do we?"

Patience said desperately: "Wouldn't it be nicer for us all to be together?"

• • •

NO one seemed to agree with her. And soon Roger and she were in a taxi taking them to the ballet.

"D'you like ballet, Patience?"

"I've never yet been to any."

"I've an idea you will."

He was right, of course. She found it enchanting. She sat spellbound, her hand in his, listening enthralled to the lovely music, watching the exquisite dancing, the color, the settings.

She listened to the thunderous applause that came when at last it was over, too moved to clap herself, too deeply stirred even for words.

"Come out of your trance," said Roger gently.

She turned dazed eyes to look at him.

"Roger—thank you for bringing me. I can't begin to tell you how much I've enjoyed it. I'd no idea anything could be so wonderful."

She rose slowly to her feet. Roger helped her into her long velvet coat, his hands lingering on her shoulders. She followed the people out from their rows of seats, and remembered that other occasion when together they'd left a theater. Then there'd been Paul. Paul standing some distance away from her turning to look at her with that cold hard stare which made her think he'd completely finished with her. How sick at heart she'd been that evening!

But now—was it possible that Roger was making her forget Paul a little?

Worst School Shortage in History Faces American Children Next Fall

Empty desks in this Ohio school belong to the pupils on the bench in background. Only heat for the school comes from the old-fashioned, pot-bellied stove at left; in winter, front desks are vacated to keep youngsters from being scorched by the stove.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Millions of U. S. kids are eagerly awaiting summer vacation.

School officials are dreading it. They know that next fall they will face the worst shortage of school buildings and facilities that America has ever experienced.

They know that this summer isn't going to be long enough for them to do much about the situation. It will just mean three hectic months of trying to line up more churches, private homes, public buildings and warehouses —anything which will substitute for a classroom. It will mean planning to put thousands of more schools on double shifts.

That's the outlook described by Ray L. Hamon, school building expert of the U. S. Office of Education.

Several factors have combined during the last few years to create this bad situation. Normal school construction was stopped during the war. Shortages of materials and the high cost of construction during the war have kept the building of new schools and their repair to about half the normal level since the war. And even before the war, surveys revealed that in many sections of the country school facilities weren't adequate.

Added to that is the increasing number of children entering schools as a result of the war baby boom. Before and during the war the average number of children reaching school age each year was a ltlle more than two million. Next fall it is estimated that very close to three million will show up at school after Labor Day ready to start their formal education.

According to the latest study of the USOE, the nation needs about $6.6 billion worth of new schools and repairs on old schools. That does not include the need for colleges and universities.

Where the money will come from to pay for this giant building program is the big problem. Most local communities are straining their tax sources to pay for running expenses. There have been 18 states which have recently appropriated limited funds to pay for a fraction of the most essential construction and repair which was necessary. But most state legislatures have avoided facing the problem.

Most experts believe the Federal government will have to foot the bill if the job is ever going to be done adequately. During the 79th Congress a bill to finance this was introduced but was never passed. During this congress educators have concentrated all their time on the Federal aid to education bill which will help teachers' pay but won't provide for new construction. They felt that the teacher problem was the most important and they didn't want to ask an economy-minded Congress for both measures.

The greatest lack of school facilities exists in the south. This was true even before the war. But the communities which are most concerned with the problem are the ones which grew suddenly as a result of the war. Double shifts, classrooms in churches and other public buildings and general crowding have existed in these cities almost since the start of the war. And the few temporary schools which the government built are now falling apart.

An old residence is a make-shift school building for these Alabama children. Stairways are narrow and inadequate; crumbling plaster (upper right) is an ever-present danger.

'Wanting Dewey Since He Licked Spaniards'

SPOKANE, Wash., May 21—(AP)—An old man approached him on the capitol steps at Salem, Ore., Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said today, with this greeting:

"Hello, Dewey. I'm glad to see you. I've been wanting Dewey for president ever since he licked them Spaniards at Manila Bay."

GIRL SCOUTS

A full summer program for the Girl Scouts of Sedalia has gone into action with the closing of school, Mrs. Elmer Dillard reported today.

"Many people have the idea that Girl Scouting fades out of the picture as soon as summer comes," Mrs. Dillard said. "As a matter of fact, Girl Scouting goes into high gear with hikes and picnics to favorite local spots and the four city parks and State Fair Grounds, special trips for troops, and a day camp program, to meet the need of every Girl Scout in Sedalia, full of summer activities to keep every Scout busy. The only difference is that we move the program out of doors."

Mrs. Harry Wise, of Springfield, Mo., a volunteer trainer for Region VIII of the Girl Scouts of the USA, will be in Sedalia this week for a special three day training session, May 26, 27 and 28.

The leaders training will cover "Outdoor Activities for in-town Groups." The Council members and school organization chairman will be given the opportunity to discuss their problems with Mrs. Wise, who is well informed on Council functions. Following is the three day schedule: Wednesday, May 26, 10:00 to 12:00, Organization training; 1:30 to 3:30 p. m., program planning for Brownie Day Camp; 3:30 to 4:00 p. m., open for special consultation; Thursday, May 27, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., New membership training for council members; 1:30 to 3:30 p. m., preparation for an outdoor day with your troop; 7:30 to 9:00 p. m. Thursday evening, meeting at the Hubbard Girl Scout club house, 100 East Morgan, for "How leaders and troops function; Friday, May 28, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., What do you do at Day Samp? 1:00 to 3:00 p. m., Leadership and program planning for Day Camp.

All meetings will be held in the Girl Scout Office, first floor of the Court House, with the exception of the meeting Thursday evening in the Hubbard Club House.

S-C Rural Life Program

The Striped College 4-H club held its Rural Life Sunday program at the Goodwill Chapel on May 16 at 10:00 o'clock. The theme of the program was "Creating Better Homes Today for More Responsible Citizenship Tomorrow."

The following program was presented: Opening song, "This Is My Father's World," by all present; reading, "The Country Church," by Nina Kroeger; clarinet solo, "Finlandia," by Rae Carlyn Garret, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Charles Leiter; the 4-H club pledge, pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and pledge to the Christian flag by the 4-H club members; song, "Dreaming," by the group; talk, "The Ideal Home," by Mrs. Kurman Riley; talk, "Citizenship Begins in the Home," by Laura Bahner; reading, "4-H Good Neighbor Pledge" by Pat Moriarity; "Plowing Song" by the group; talk, "The Training of the Youth in the Home" by Judge Dimmit Hoffman; Benediction by Betty Lieter.

Transport Chief Wants Gayer London

LONDON—(AP)—Londoners need more opportunities for "an evening in town," says Transport Minister Alfred Barnes. He's not worried by the Englishman's lack of social life. But he is concerned by the transport tie-up caused when hundreds of thousands of workers all attempt to bet to their suburban homes between 5 and 6 o'clock each evening.

And he feels that if west end department stores and shops kept open later at night the crowds they would attract might lighten the transport burden during the peak hours. "The restoration of facilities for 'an evening in town' would probably do more than anything else to spread traffic over a longer period and so ease the conditions of travel," Barnes said.

Things an Ambulance Driver Learns

Their Lives are in YOUR hands

Some day the active little boys and girls who cross streets while walking their dogs, going to school or in the course of play, will be the men and women who make up our community. Their lives are precious and deserve careful watchfulness, every time you drive.

McLaughlin's Cadillac ambulance, new a year ago, has made a contribution of which we are proud of the health, safety and comfort of this community. It is at your service, day or night.
